CENTENARY NEVER QUITS

LEARNING. WE EXPLORE

TRADITIONS

FOR ENDURING FOUNDATIONS,

INVENT NEW IDEAS

FOR FORWARD-THINKING

SCHOLARSHIP, AND

CONNECT ALL DISCIPLINES

AND PRACTICES FOR SERVICE

TO EACH OTHER AND OUR WORLD.

FEBRUARY 17, 2005: Two exciting events for Centenary coincide on the same February day. One is long-planned: the College observes the 180th year since its founding with a Founders' Day Convocation dedicated to the 50th anniversary of the Honor Court. The other is announced that morning, when the national daily newspaper USA Today names its All-USA College Academic Team, including Centenary student Kelsey Bellamy Johnson among its 20 members. After the convocation, students, faculty, and staff gather on the steps of Magale Library to celebrate.

DEAR FRIENDS OF CENTENARY:

In 2004-05, Centenary students, faculty, staff, and alumni again proved themselves a special community of thinkers and doers.

Centenary never quits learning. We explore traditions for enduring foundations, invent new ideas for forward-thinking scholarship, and connect all disciplines and practices for service to each other and our world.

Remember with me some of this year's highlights:

- You hosted a sitting U.S. president, visiting scholars, and hurricane evacuees.
- You honored nationally recognized students in the sciences, athletics, and humanities.
- You sent students to The White House and an NCAA tournament, funds to St. Jude's and tsunami survivors, and new graduates to the world.
- You recognized outstanding teaching and continued the College's tradition of offering intellectual challenge, distinctive experiences, and a strong community.
- You sent students to regional and national conferences, student-faculty summer research projects, and witnessed the results at the annual Student Research Forum.
- You surpassed the year's goal for the Campaign for Scholarships and reached 99.3 percent of the annual fund goal while welcoming a record number of new donors and increased alumni giving by three percent.
- You had a lot of fun—from intercollegiate contests to intramurals, special events, and the reprise of the historic Kollege Kapers variety show.

These are just a few examples of what made Centenary special in 2004-05. More people and events fill this report, reflecting our ongoing commitment to distinct community and scholarship. Of course, these stories still cannot tell it all. They just sketch for us what Centenary is—its faces, experiences, and successes.

Celebrate the Centenary community with me.

TRADITIONS—NEW AND OLD

At Centenary, we pride ourselves in offering a personal education that is like none other. Our professors are passionate about teaching and they combine their skills with students' to live and work in a vibrant campus atmosphere. The environment is one that encourages exploration, discovery, creativity, the asking of questions and the collaborative finding of answers. We are pleased that a Centenary education has taken so many students so much further in life than they ever expected to go. Through the strong community found at Centenary, there are distinctive experiences and intellectual challenges that lead to superior preparation for life. A few examples of the Centenary Experience from the 2004-05 academic year follow.

LIFE LESSONS LEARNED AT CENTENARY

AUGUST 2004: "It is here at Centenary that I learned the most influential lessons in my own life. It was through my Centenary education that I learned how to learn, how to think for myself, how to lead a team, and how to intelligently articulate my views."

These comments come from a Centenary alumna who is addressing several hundred students, faculty, and staff gathered in Brown Chapel for President's Day Convocation. Rayne Martin of the Class of 1996 stands before the gathering as a prime example of one of the many Centenary students who have gone on to successful careers in civic service.

Introductions point out that as director of relocation for the Chicago Housing Authority, the 29-year-old alumna oversees a large staff and manages a $30 million budget. She has helped over 3,000 families obtain and sustain quality housing during the preceding three years.

Ms. Martin highlights the preparation she received. "Since graduating from Centenary, I have had some profound and amazing opportunities that I know I would not have understood or appreciated fully had it not been for the incredible liberal arts education that I received here."

CELEBRATING A HALF CENTURY OF THE HONOR COURT

FEBRUARY 2005: The occasion is another large convocation—on Founders' Day—before seniors and a large gathering in Brown Chapel. This time, Centenary pays tribute to the Golden Anniversary of its Honor Court, recognizing the tradition of academic integrity that is evident each time students take a test or turn in a paper, acknowledging that the work is theirs alone.

Two former Honor Court Chief Justices, who held office more than four decades apart, share surprisingly similar accounts of the impact of Centenary's Honor Code upon their lives after graduation. Ed Harbuck, Class of 1953, is a charter member of the Court and a current officer of the Board of Trustees. Beth Bonner, Class of 1999, ends her Honor Court service at the turn of the millennium. Both tell revealing stories that recall Centenary as a place where students practice becoming better human beings, and when they leave, they know they can be that person wherever they go. "It is a gift that will stay with you for the rest of your life," Bonner concludes.

DISTINCTIVE EXPERIENCES

Each year, Centenary attracts a number of distinguished public figures, who contribute fresh perspectives to the intellectual life of students and the community at large. These "Attaway Fellows in Civic Culture" spend a week on campus, visiting with students in formal and informal ways and giving various public lectures and presentations. Their presence is made possible by the generous support of the Douglas and Marion Attaway family and by the Student Government Association. In 2004-05, Centenary hosts six distinctive fellows, ranging from a documentary filmmaker to an urban sociologist.

CORRINGTON AWARD WINNERS STAY ON AS ATTAWAY FELLOWS

NOVEMBER AND DECEMBER 2004: Multi-talented poets Debora Greger and William Logan accept a joint appointment, first receiving the 2004 John William Corrington Award for Literary Excellence and then Attaway Fellowships to allow a week's worth of further interaction with students and faculty. Drawing upon his expertise in literary criticism, Logan presents his talk "Prisoner, Fancy-Man, Rowdy, Lawyer, Physician, Priest: Whitman's Brags." Greger's multimedia collage exhibit, "Daily Life in the Memory Palace," remains in the Anderson Choral Building Atrium through December.

HOLOCAUST SURVIVORS MAKE HISTORY REAL

NOVEMBER 2004: Holocaust survivors Rose and Louis Van Thyn tell their stories to intimate student groups and a standing-room-only audience in Kilpatrick Auditorium. The Van Thyns share their stories in hopes that people will not forget or repeat the horrors of genocide. While at Centenary, the Van Thyns also make themselves available to meet with students and faculty each day over lunch in Bynum Commons. Rose Van Thyn [pictured right] is getting accustomed to being called "Dr. Van Thyn" since receiving an honorary doctorate from Centenary in 2002.

RESEARCHER DISCUSSES IMMIGRATION, MEDIA, RACE

JANUARY 2005: Dr. Charles Gallagher of Georgia State University speaks with students and lectures on immigration and media portrayals of race. He presents his extensive research, which focuses on racial and social inequality, immigration, urban sociology, and the ways in which the media, popular culture, and the state shape ideas of race. His comments spark introspection on the part of many.

STUDENTS INTERACT WITH EMMY-WINNING FILMMAKER

MARCH 2005: Two-time Oscar nominee and Emmy winner Jonathan Stack [pictured below] presents a series of lectures and film screenings, highlighting five films documenting the conditions of prisons in Louisiana. These films, for which Stack won the Thurgood Marshall Journalism Award, reveal the faces and stories of those incarcerated in Louisiana. After each film is screened, Stack conducts a question-and-answer session and mediates a general discussion period.

ROSE VAN THYN

"JONATHAN STACK... CHALLENGED THE STUDENTS TO WORK WITH HIM ON A PRODUCTION BUDGET FOR AN IMAGINARY DOCUMENTARY. THIS IMPROMPTU EXERCISE PROVIDED CENTENARY STUDENTS WITH AN INSIDER'S GLIMPSE INTO THE BUSINESS OF FILMMAKING, A PERSPECTIVE THEY DO NOT USUALLY HAVE ACCESS TO IN SUCH A LIVELY AND DETAILED FASHION."

FEBRUARY 2005: DURING HOMECOMING, STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN A CANNED FOOD CONTEST SPONSORED BY THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION. THE NON-PERISHABLE ITEMS ARE DONATED TO THE NORTHWEST LOUISIANA FOOD BANK.

CIVIC ENGAGEMENT

During 2004-05, Centenary students plan and implement many fund-raising and community service projects, contributing time and thousands of dollars to medical research, disaster relief, and academic efforts. Their activities—the projects spearheaded and held dear by the students themselves—are stellar examples of the lessons of service learning embedded within the Centenary experience.

GREEKS WORK FOR CHILDREN, CANCER RESEARCH

THROUGHOUT 2004-05: Greek organizations raise funds for several national foundations. Centenary's Chi Omega chapter holds a "Just Wish for It!" auction to benefit the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Louisiana. Centenary's Zeta Tau Alphas host "Think Pink!," a golf tournament to raise funds for breast cancer research through the Susan G. Komen Foundation. Also benefiting cancer research, Centenary's Theta Chi fraternity sponsors "Jam for a Cause," sending each attendee's cover fee and additional donations directly to the American Cancer Society.

STUDENT PROJECT BENEFITS TSUNAMI RELIEF

JANUARY-FEBRUARY 2005: Other students across campus dedicate time and energy toward a citywide Tsunami Relief Rummage Sale, a project conceived and piloted by the Centenary Chaplain's Office and the Maroon Cross, a community service organization. Hours upon hours are spent collecting, sorting, pricing, and eventually selling items donated to the effort. More than $4,300 in proceeds go to the United Methodist Committee on Relief to be used for restorative work in South Asia.

A MASSIVE EFFORT ON BEHALF OF ST. JUDE CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

THROUGHOUT 2004-05: Up 'Til Dawn, the national collegiate fund-raising campaign for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, attracts record numbers of student volunteers at Centenary. Throughout the year, students organize a series of successful fund-raising events: a walk-a-thon, letter-writing campaign, singing valentines, carnival, and participation in National Canning Day. Some students also work at KTBS-TV during the presidential election and donate their salaries to the effort. By the academic year's end, the group of students raises over $22,000 for St. Jude. Some of the organizers [pictured above left to right, standing] are: Holly Williams, Wynne Stuart, Taylor Robertson, Lisa Bounds, Peyton Dufour, Up 'Til Dawn national advisor Bertie Downs, [seated] Amanda Fontenot, and Ashley Young.

SENIORS EMBRACE CENTENARY'S CAMPAIGN FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

APRIL 2005: Considering it their class gift, graduating seniors rally to raise a Class of 2005 Annual Scholarship. This marks the first annual scholarship established by a graduating class at Centenary since 1976. It indicates the commitment of Centenary's newest alumni to supporting the education of current Centenary students.

AN UNDERTAKING WITHOUT PRECEDENT IN THE UNITED STATES

THROUGHOUT 2004-05: The Centenary Heritage Language Project, a collaborative effort among faculty and students, completes 11 books in their native languages of French and German. Written by Louisianians in the 19th century, these rare books are rescued from obscurity and are now internationally recognized for their literary significance. The project is hailed as "an undertaking without precedent in the United States" (Le Figaro).

A YEAR OF ACCOMPLISHMENTS

AUGUST 2004

■ President's Convocation begins new traditions: seniors line the walk as first-year students join faculty and staff for the academic procession [see photo on inside front cover], and all first-year students receive a medallion commemorating the start of their Centenary Experience.

■ Centenary again earns high national rankings: No. 4 for financial aid in The Princeton Review's The Best 357 Colleges, No. 10 among the South's "Best Values" in U.S. News & World Report, and No. 11 among the South's master's institutions in U.S. News & World Report.

■ The Mid-Continent Conference names Centenary tennis player Anja Schmidt '05 its Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year, making her the third student-athlete in conference history to win the league's top academic award twice in her career.

SEPTEMBER 2004

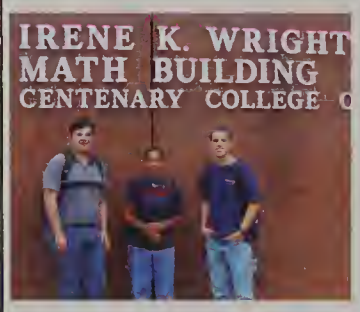
■ Dillard University evacuees find refuge from Hurricane Ivan in the Centenary Fitness Center.

■ The Centenary Muses organize the annual Book Bazaar, raising a record $38,000 for student projects.

■ The Louisiana Board of Regents completes a $100,000 endowed professorship honoring Trustee J. Hugh Watson and the PGA donates $100,000 honoring Ryder Cup Team captain Hal Sutton '81.

■ Shenandoah Shakespeare Express again visits Centenary, bringing its "Ripe With Mischief" tour to campus for one week.

OCTOBER 2004



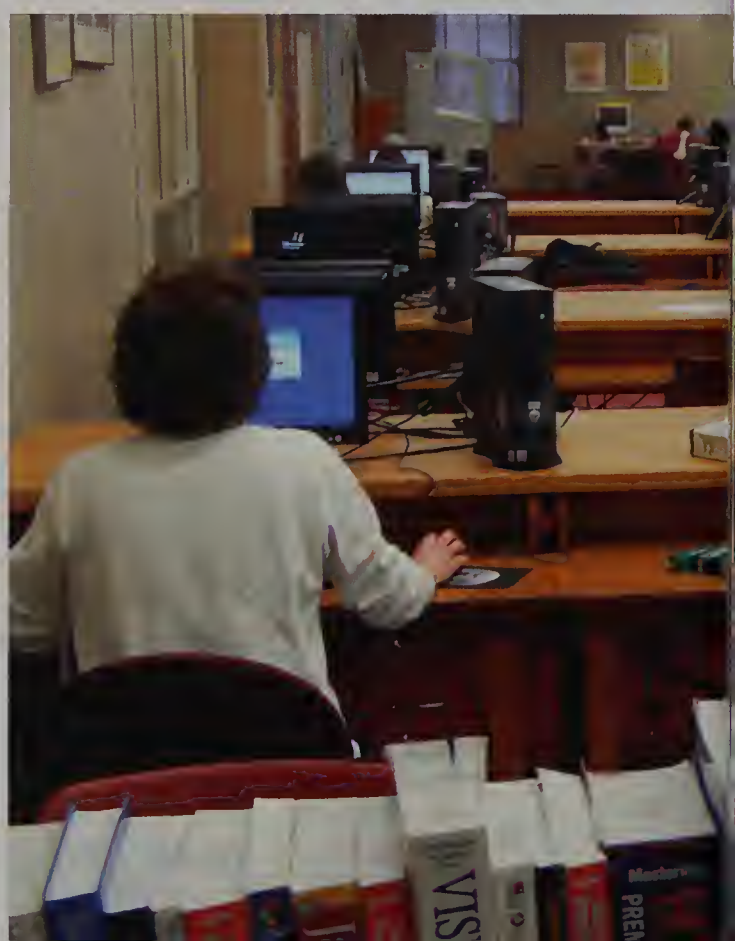
■ The former Baptist Center on Woodlawn Avenue becomes the Irene K. Wright Math Building, honoring the 1938 graduate whose $2 million endowment enables the building's purchase and renovation.

■ Dr. Katherine Fell becomes Centenary's Vice President for Development.

■ The American Chemical Society awards the Centenary College Chemistry Club its eighth consecutive national award, placing the club in the top eight percent in the U.S.

■ Sponsored by the Louisiana League of Women Voters and Shreveport's KTBS-TV Channel 3, the U.S. senatorial candidates in Louisiana visit Centenary.

■ The College and the Junior League of Shreveport collaborate to present the League's second annual River Cities Youth Summit, a cultural awareness and tolerance training program for middle school students from Caddo and Bossier parishes.



NOVEMBER 2004

■ Poet-artist Debora Greger and poet-literary critic William Logan accept Centenary's Corrington Award for Literary Excellence and also stay on campus as Attaway Fellows.

■ The Student Division of the Louisiana Film Festival comes to campus, offering workshops, screening student films, and hosting award-winning documentary filmmaker Alice Elliott.

■ Dr. Scott Vetter, Woolf Professor of Geology, receives the Craig Award from the Louisiana Science Teachers Association honoring university faculty members who have reached out to K-12 educators and made a difference in their careers.

■ Meadows Museum of Art presents its Let There Be Light: The History of Lighting Implements from Ancient Times to the 20th Century from the New Orleans Museum of Art, opening with a special membership gala.

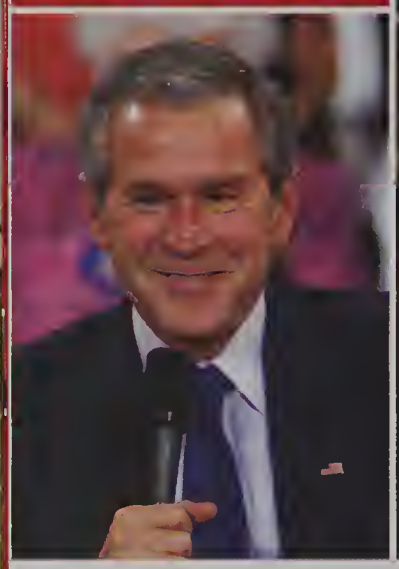
DECEMBER 2004

■ The Centenary College Choir receives an unprecedented sixth invitation to sing at The White House during its holiday celebrations. Centenary's Camerata singers and the Shreveport Symphony Orchestra present a public performance of Handel's Messiah.

■ The Mid-Continent Conference names Centenary swimming coach Butch Jordan its Male Coach of the Year after the Gents and Ladies earn many conference honors, including the male squad winning third in its first year at the Mid-Con Championships.

■ The Christmas Candlelight Service features student music ensembles, prayers, and readings in Brown Memorial Chapel.

MARCH 2005: GEORGE W. BUSH BECOMES FIRST SITTING U.S. PRESIDENT TO VISIT CENTENARY.



JANUARY 2005

■ Dr. Valerie Smith, Woodrow Wilson Professor of Literature and Director of African American Studies at Princeton University, speaks at Centenary's annual Martin Luther King, Jr. Day convocation.

■ Dr. John Dominic Crossan, noted scholar on the historical Jesus, presents three days of seminars during the Faith and Reason Seminar sponsored by the D.L. Dykes, Jr. Foundation and the Center for Theological Studies at Centenary.

FEBRUARY 2005

■ The national daily newspaper USA Today names Centenary senior Kelsey Bellamy Johnson '05 one of 20 students to its All-USA College Academic First Team, in recognition of outstanding intellectual achievement and leadership.

■ President Schwab serves as grand marshal for the Krewe of Highland Mardi Gras Parade, featuring ten floats sponsored by the Centenary Alumni Association.

■ Homecoming Weekend celebrates Centenary. Morning Call announces the Outstanding Teacher Award to sociologist Dr. Michelle Wolkomir and the President's Excellence Award to Assistant Athletic Director Terry Ennis. Dr. Charles Knight '41 enters the Alumni Hall of Fame, Bonnie Harrel Watkins '57 receives the Alumni Loyalty Award and Trustee Gretchen Crow becomes an honorary alumna. Jennifer Pearson '97 and Ashley Sittig '05 speak at Legacy Luncheon, which recognizes scholarship donors. The Church Careers Institute celebrates its 30th anniversary.

■ The Forum, a joint project of three Centenary organizations, addresses the death penalty during a three-part public series beginning with a presentation by legal historian Stuart Banner. A public program also presents "DNA and Death Penalty Exoneration: A Discussion with Kirk Bloodsworth and Tim Junkin."

100% OF THE CENTENARY COLLEGE BOARD OF TRUSTEES CONTRIBUTED TO THE COLLEGE IN 2004-05

HONOR ROLL OF DONORS

CENTENARY COLLEGE 2004-05

Dear Centenary Supporters:

Because of you, Centenary students in the 2004-05 academic year studied Bach, taught kindergarteners to read, watched films worth interpreting, built houses for homeless families, conducted cancer research, sang at The White House, and campaigned for Student Government offices. Most of the students who live and learn on our campus could not do so without your assistance. More than 96 percent of them receive financial aid.

What students do for others is perhaps the best measure of their education. We hope they understand that individuals privileged enough to receive a wonderful education ought to give so that others may enjoy the same privilege.

Thank you for exemplifying a mark of the truly educated: generosity.

Sincerely,

Katherine Fell

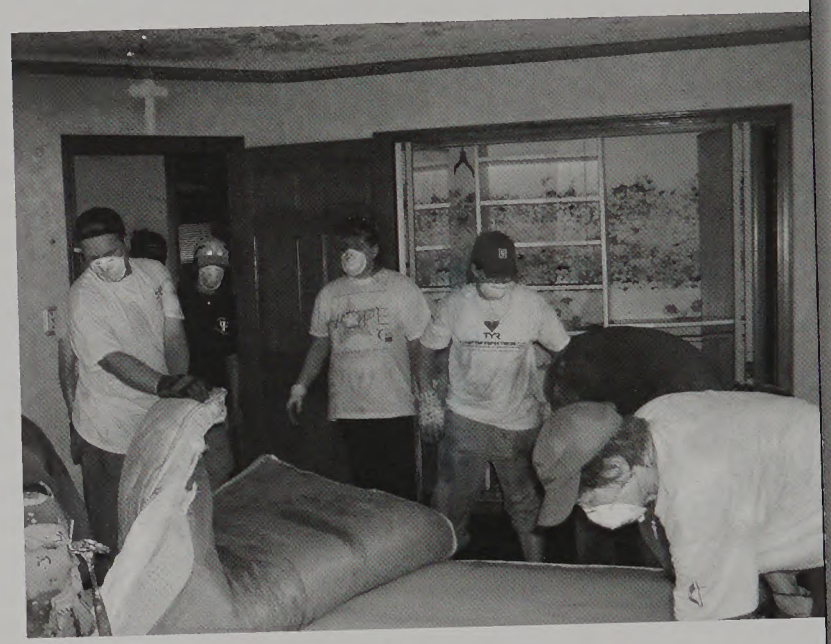
P.S. A note about the hurricanes

As this document, which reports on 2004-05, was being prepared this fall, the Gulf Coast and Louisiana were hit by two devastating hurricanes–first Katrina on August 29 and then Rita on September 24. As a half million people were displaced and flood waters entered the City of New Orleans and across South Louisiana, our state was faced with the worst natural disaster in the history of the United States. The recovery effort is monumental and will continue for months and years to come.

From our North Louisiana location, Centenary College of Louisiana responded to the crisis on several fronts. Initially, our campus community housed some 230 evacuees from Dillard University in the Gold Dome and the Fitness Center, and we worked to find transportation home for those students once it was determined that they could not return to their home campus. Two officials from Dillard are continuing to operate from Centenary's campus as they prepare for the challenges ahead and a January return to classes being temporarily offered on the Tulane campus.



Later, we provided shelter for Centenary families, power company workers, and medical school students. We coordinated food and clothing drives, provided volunteers at shelters and donation centers, located local housing for alumni evacuees and others, and provided counseling services on campus and off. We extended our fall registration deadline to allow the registration of students displaced from Tulane, Loyola, Dillard, and the University of New Orleans, who might otherwise have lost a semester's work.

With almost 20 percent of our own student body being from affected areas, we worked to assess their situations and started an assistance fund on their behalf. The Mellon Foundation has assisted Centenary and Millsaps College in Jackson, Mississippi, with a contribution to this effort.

As the recovery effort began and it became relatively safe to enter affected areas, Centenary students and staff, coordinated by the Church Careers Institute, spent their Fall Break in Slidell, Louisiana, offering help with clean-up efforts. Other support projects are ongoing.

The outpouring of support for our students, our institution, and our state has been heart-warming. With the support of our citizens and our nation, the challenges ahead will be met and conquered. Our sincerest thanks go out to all who have offered time, talents, funds, and prayers during this stressful time. God bless you.
